REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The McCannah-Biehn House is located at 26 Queen Street (PT LT 11, PL 37, NW OF ALBERT ST; PT LT 11, PL 37, SE OF QUEEN ST, AS IN 657750; HALTON HILLS) in the Town of Halton Hills.

The property at 26 Queen Street is a rectangular-shaped parcel situated at the south corner of the intersection between Queen Street and McNabb Street. The property contains a two-storey, L-shaped residential building.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 26 Queen Street has physical and design value as a unique example of an early twentieth-century vernacular residential building constructed using timber salvaged from a dismantled trestle bridge. The residential building references the simplicity of Edwardian architecture in its form and detailing, with flat-headed window openings with large-paned sash windows, simple dormers following the roofline, and balanced façade, however its materiality makes it unique in character.

The property at 26 Queen Street has historical and associative value due to its association with Edward McCannah, Station Agent for the Grand Trunk Railway. McCannah constructed several houses along Queen Street, including the residences directly adjacent to the property at 20, 22, and 24 Queen Street, and Grey Vernon at 5 Albert Street. The property is also associated with Walter Beihn, owner, and publisher of the Georgetown Herald between 1940 and 1973, Chamber of Commerce Secretary between 1974 and 1986, Board member for the public-school board, and Councillor for Ward 3 in Georgetown between 1976 and 1982.

The property at 26 Queen Street has contextual value as one of several historic properties along Queen Street in Georgetown. The house is physically and historically linked to several of the existing residences along the street, many of which were constructed by Edward McCannah.

Attributes that contribute to the design/physical value and historical/associative value of the property at 26 Queen Street:

- The setback, placement, and orientation of the building at the intersection of Queen Street and McNabb Street;
- The scale, form and massing of the two-storey, L-shaped building with cross-gable roof, brick chimney, concrete block foundation, and one-storey rear wing;
- Materials, including railway timbers/ties with chinking, concrete block, and wooden brackets
- Shed-roofed and gable-roofed dormers throughout;
- Flat-headed window openings, including sills and lintels, throughout; and,
- The one-storey recessed porch with squared columns and wooden ceiling on the primary (northwest) elevation.

Attributes that contribute to the contextual value of the property at 26 Queen Street:

- The setback, placement, and orientation of the building at the intersection of Queen Street and McNabb Street; and,
- The scale, form and massing of the two-storey, L-shaped building with cross-gable roof, brick chimney, concrete block foundation, and one-storey rear wing.

The one-storey enclosed verandah with below-grade garage along the side elevation has been modified since its construction and is not identified as a heritage attribute of the property, however could be considered an attribute if restored to its original condition. The rear enclosed porch has also not been identified as a heritage attribute of the property.
