SCHEDULE “B” TO BY-LAW NO. 2024-0089

REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The subject property is located along the north side of Bower Street in the community of Acton in the Town of Halton Hills. The property contains a two-and-a-half storey brick residential building with hipped roof and stone foundation that fronts onto Bower Street.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 35 Bower Street has physical and design value as a representative example of an Edwardian residential building with an unusual two-storey projecting bay with pyramidal roof dormer in the community of Acton within the Town of Halton Hills. The Clark House at 35 Bower Street exhibits those features that are characteristic of Edwardian Classicism in residential buildings, including its balanced façade, large, hipped roof, smooth brick exterior, generous front porch, and many flatheaded window openings with stone sills. Although the two-storey projecting bay with dormer are not typical of the style, the flatheaded window openings and lack of additional fenestration on the bay are in keeping with the restrained character of the style.

The property at 35 Bower Street has historical and associative value due to its associations with the Henderson family, and for its long-term ownership by the Clark and Gould families. MP David Henderson created this property and two other lots from land that was originally owned part of the Adams’ farm property. The existing home was built for the Clark family who is associated with late nineteenth-century and early-twentieth-century ownership of the Acton Hotel, then known as the Clark House, an establishment with origins that date back to 1843. Following the death of her husband Gelard Clark, Margaret remarried and lived with her second husband William J. Gould at the subject property. Gould was one of Acton’s best-known citizens and a veteran of two wars, working at Beardmore & CO. for several years and the first president of the Acton Branch of the Canadian Legion. Margaret’s son Clifton Boyd was a prominent local banker and spent many weekends at the home that would become his sister Ruby’s for many years until it was sold in 1979 to its new owners.

The property at 35 Bower Street has significant contextual value as an early-twentieth-century Edwardian residential building along Bower Street in the community of Acton. Together with the neighbouring properties along Willow Street North and Bower Street, the existing building helps to define and maintain the late-nineteenth century and early-twentieth century development of this residential neighbourhood on the periphery of Acton’s historic downtown. The property and existing residence are physically, functionally, visually, and historically linked to its surroundings in the community and has maintained its significant presence along the streetscape as captured in historical photography. The property is similar in scale and materials to the neighbouring properties and has not been identified as a landmark in the area.
